

Millennium set for ASX debut following successful IPO

November 19, 2015

Millennium Services Group Limited (AXS Code: MIL) is scheduled to commence trading on the ASX, Thursday 19th November 2015.

Millennium’s Chief Executive Officer, Mark Baldwin, said the Company was delighted with the outstanding level of support received from investors. “I believe the reasons for our significant interest from investors was not only due to our double-digit growth over a number of years, but the opportunities for expansion into new locations and sectors within the integrated services market.”

Millennium will remain majority owned by its founders, who will retain key management positions in the Company.

Millennium is excited to extend its share allocation to long-standing employees including cleaners and security officers, who are being recognised for their contribution to the growth and success of the Company.

About Millennium

Millennium is a cleaning, security and integrated service specialist in the retail shopping centre, commercial property and Commonwealth and state government sectors.

Having started operations as a security services company in 2003 in New South Wales, Millennium has grown steadily since inception to provide class-leading cleaning, security and integrated services on the eastern and southern seaboard of Australia and in 2015 expanded into New Zealand.

Millennium employs in excess of 2300 trained personnel in Australia and New Zealand to deliver manned cleaning, security and integrated services including concierge services, hygiene, building and landscape maintenance, and has built its reputation based on personalised service and attention to detail.
